Hampstead is a highly sought after area known for its intellectual, artistic, musical and literary associations. The area has retained most of its village atmosphere and charm and offers its occupants excellent cultural attractions such as Freud Museum, Keats House and the picturesque Kenwood House home to many major open-air concerts and also featured in the film Notting Hill. Hampstead Heath is a main attraction for people looking to move to Hampstead. The parkland boasts three open air public swimming pools and wonderful family activities. The village also has a great selection of restaurants and pubs such as The Holly Bush which, until recently was gas-lit, Gaucho, The Freemasons Arms, Dim T, Wagamamas, Carluccios, Pizza Express and the famous La Crperie de Hampstead . With easy access into central London via bus, tube (Northern Line Zone 2 from Hampstead Station), or just a short drive by car, the location is perfect for those commuting into the city.
